FIVE ITALIANS FINISH JAIL SENTENCE MONDAY

Tony Marascalco, Charlie Marascalco, Bill Marascalco, Sam Barranco and Vince Barranco, the five Italians who were sentenced by the Federal court in Oxford to serve 90 days in jail for violation of the prohibition laws, will complete their jail sentences Monday, July 16, and will be liberated from the Grenada county jail where they have been incarcerated. All of them were taken to Oxford the first of the week to pay their fines of $250 each and costs, the costs approximating $35 in each case. In addition to their fines and jail sentences, all of these men, except Bill Marascalco, the son of Tony Marascalco, were assessed with something over $1300 for license. This amount was reduced approximately $1000 in each case, the reductions being secured through the efforts of interested citizens.

These Italians are all in business in Grenada. They have many friends among the nativeborn citizenship, many of whom interested themselves in trying to secure their pardon from President Coolidge. However, their pardon petitions were denied by the president on June 22 and all of them had to fulfill the sentence of the court. They made model prisoners while in jail and their conduct entitled them to many liberties not usually accorded prisoners. Each is firmly determined that he will not have to spend another sentence behind the bars and that he will steer clear of all the various technicalities of the prohibition and other laws.

LAW FORBIDS BARTER OF FEDERAL OFFICES

Senator Stephens Got through Senate Two Years Ago Law Carrying Heavy Penalties for Those Buying and Selling Federal Offices—Another Instance of Results vs "Old Talk".

Jackson, Miss., July 10.—Referring to press dispatches carrying the announcement that an investigation of the sale of postoffices in Mississippi was to be made by a federal grand jury Senator Hubert D. Stephens gave out this afternoon a statement as to his efforts in the Senate to prevent trafficking in postoffice patronage. The senator says:

"For a long time it has been rumored that postoffices have been bought and sold in Mississippi, so I am glad that the matter is to be investigated by the federal court. On July 2, 1926, I called up and had passed through the Senate two bills relating to the purchase and sale of public offices. One of the bills is as follows:

" 'Section 1. That it shall be unlawful to pay or offer or promise to pay any sum of money, or any other thing of value, to any person, firm or corporation for the use or promise to use any influence, whatsoever, to procure any appointive office under the government, of the United States for any person whatsoever.

" 'Sec. 2. It shall be unlawful to solicit or receive from anyone whatsoever, either as a political contribution, or for personal emolument, any sum of money or thing of value, whatsoever, in consideration of the promise of support, or use of influence, or for the support or influence of the payee, in behalf of the person paying the money, or any other person, in obtaining any appointive office under the government of the United States.

" 'Sec. 3. Anyone convicted of violating this act shall be punished by imprisonment of not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by both such fine and imprisonment.'

"The other bill requires that each person appointed to office shall, within 30 days, file with the comptroller general an affidavit that neither he nor any one acting in his behalf has given, transferred, promised or paid any consideration for or in the expectation or hope of receiving assistance in securing such appointment. No salary can be paid until such affidavit has been filed. If a false affidavit is made, its maker would be guilty of perjury.

"So, it was in part by my efforts that political graft was made punishable. If anyone is convicted and punished for such offense, it will be under laws that I helped to pass. It is the duty of every good citizen to do what he can to stop whatever corruption and graft there may be in regard to the buying and selling of public office.

"Any one who has knowledge of such violations of law should gladly welcome this opportunity to appear before the grand jury and give testimony."

LUCKY, HE LAUGHS

Joe Wilhite, negro, laughed long and lustily at highwaymen who made him the victim of an elaborate hold-up near Greenville last week. Expecting a wad of greenbacks, the stick-up artists got eighty cents.

Republican Party Chooses Electors

Ticket Composed Exclusively of Whites Picked as Bait to Nibbling Democrats Who Might Not Vote for Negroes.

Jackson, Miss., July 8.—For the first time in history the Republicans in Mississippi offer a presidential electoral ticket composed exclusively of white persons.

Heretofore it has been the invariable custom to put several negroes on the electorial ticket, but the Republican state convention, hoping to toss a bit of alluring bait to nibbling Democrats, offer an opportunity to vote the Republican ticket without casting ballots for negroes.

Members of the Republican party in Jackson, frankly admit that this was the purpose in framing an electoral ticket composed exclusively of white persons, despite the fact that the party membership—at least, the membership led by Perry Howard—is largely composed of negroes.

The personnel of the Republican electoral ticket is as follows:

Republican Electors

State at large: W. O. Ligon, Gloster; Mrs. Alleene G. Pettis, Okolona.

District 1: J. O. Jatten, Aberdeen.

District 2: William McDonough, Ripley.

District 3: Dr. J. T. Spence, Greenwood.

District 4: H. R. Kite, Okolona.

District 5: J. C. Hembre, Philadelphia.

District 6: Charles M. Hays, Hattiesburg.

District 7: Fred W. Hale Natchez.

District 8: J. H. Osborne, Jackson.

Whether or not this is going to be good news to weak-kneed Democrats remains to be seen, but reports from over the state during the past week indicate that the great rank and file of Democracy is not only reconciled to the ticket nominated at Houston, but that more enthusiasm is being manifested than in any presidential campaign since Woodrow Wilson defeated Taft and Roosevelt.

In many counties organizations are already being formed to bring out the full Democratic vote at the November election.

Cotton Acreage More Than For Year 1927

Increase of 11.4% over Acreage in Cultivation July 1 of Last Year—Comparison Given with 1927.

Washington, July 9.—The acreage of cotton in cultivation on July 1, was estimated today by the department of agriculture at 46,695,000 acres, which is 11.4 per cent more than in cultivation a year ago.

Owing to late planting, the department announced the need for repeated replanting in many sections, and owing to the impossibility of working the crop out at the proper time, the reported stand of cotton is 6 per cent below the stand reported on July 1 last year.

The estimates of acreage, like those of previous years, do not refer to the total acreage planted, but only to that portion remaining in actual cultivation on July 1. Allowance had been made in the 1928 estimation the department explained, for about 150,000 acres of cotton flooded out in Arkansas during the last week in June and for a small acreage similarly flooded in Missouri.

The increases in acreage this season are most marked in the less important cotton states, in the extensive area flooded last year and in some other areas where the acreage was sharply reduced last season. California and Arizona are the only states where the acreage this season is greater than in 1928.

Last year's area in cultivation on July 1 was 41,905,000 acres and the quantity of cotton ginned from the harvested area was 12,950,473 equivalent 500 pound bales.

This year's acreage in cultivation on July 1 and its percentage of last year's acreage, by states follows:

Virginia—84,000 and 130 per cent of last year's acreage.
North Carolina—1,831,000 and 107 per cent of last year's acreage.
South Carolina—2,577,000 and 105.
Georgia—3,956,000 and 113.
Florida—100,000 and 149.
Missouri—390,000 and 128.
Tennessee—1,133,000 and 115.
Alabama—3,471,000 and 108.
Mississippi—3,783,000 and 111.
Louisiana—1,886,000 and 119.
Texas—18,366,000 and 109.
Oklahoma—4,899,000 and 117.
Arkansas—3,613,000 and 115.
New Mexico—114,000 and 114.
Arizona—200,000 and 143.
California—223,000 and 171.5.
All other states—29,000 and 126.

The acreage in lower California (old Mexico) not included in California figures nor in United States total, is 160,000, and the acreage of all other states is made up of 4,000 acres in Illinois, 160,000 in Kansas, and 23,000 in Kentucky.

TELLS OF HOUSTON TRIP

W. B. Hoffa Describes Louisiana and Texas Sections.

W. B. Hoffa entertained the members of the Grenada Rotary Club Tuesday, July 10, at their regular luncheon with a glowing account of Houston, Texas and sections of Louisiana he saw on his motor trip to the Texas city during the Democratic national convention. He mentioned a trip he made to Houston sixteen years ago and stated that he was astounded at the marvelous growth of the city since that time. He said, also, that this growth had not reached a standstill but that it was continuing at a rapid rate. He spoke of the building of subdivisions in apparently almost inaccessible portions of Houston and how they had been quickly settled. He mentioned also Houston as a port and told of the opening up of the Buffalo canal and the building of Houston's immense wharfage.

Mr. Hoffa mentioned several conversations he had with northerners while he was in the convention city and related incidents they told him of the great grip that Al Smith, Democratic presidential nominee, has on the affections of the people.

Prior to Mr. Hoffa's talk, Malcolm Lawrence, who also attended the Houston convention, spoke very briefly of impressions made on him.

Edgar Underwood, who was a guest at the luncheon, made a short talk about his trip to the bankers' meeting at Cleveland Monday.

PRESS GALLERY PICKS STEPHENS AS WORKER

Newspaper Writers in Senate Agree that Mississippi's Junior Senator Looks after Interests of His Constituency at National Capital—Senator Highly Esteemed by Colleagues.

Washington, July 10.—Members of the Senate and House press galleries, through long experience in watching over deliberations of Congress, have a knack of sizing up the representatives of the people in Washington. They know that the first idea of a member of Congress after his election is to hold his seat.

Newspapermen, in handling news of Congress for the benefit of their readers, divide Senators and Representatives into two classes: Those who work hard for their constituents and are deserving of publicity, and those who seek a return to their legislative seats through bally-hoo channels.

There is another type of member, however, who, through diligence, is entitled to publicity and deserving of the votes of his people when he seeks re-election, but who is so retiring in nature that he does not seek the publicity which newspapermen feel should be his—and would be his for the asking.

To this group belongs Senator Hubert D. Stephens, Mississippi Democrat, who entered the Senate six years ago to fill the place left vacant by the voluntary retirement of the immortal John Sharp Williams. In the opinion of members of the Senate press gallery, Stephens is succeeding in his efforts to fill Senator Williams' shoes. His manner—representative of the old Southern courtesy—and his consideration of the opinion of his colleagues on both sides of the aisle, is unequalled in the Senate.

It is a matter of record that Stephens has more of his bills reported favorably from committee and finally passed by the Senate than any other member of that body, but his work does not end there. Mississippi's junior Senator is as interested in every bill which is introduced by other members and which goes through the Senate hopper as he is in his own and is emphatic in his stand on the side which he believes to be right.

Newspapermen have an utter contempt for the type of Senator and Representative who seeks undeserved publicity, and the hard job for a press gallery occupant is not what to write, but what not to write. There is only one fault newspapermen find in Stephens of Mississippi—he doesn't seem to realize the value of publicity, or, probably, he is afraid he will be placed in the position of seeking publicity. News writers take a keen delight in answering a call from Stephens when he at times overcomes his reluctance in sending for reporters. They know that when Hubert Stephens calls, there is a real story and that it is not ballyhoo designed to catch votes down in his Southern State.

Not only among newspapermen is Stephens popular. He probably is better liked generally among his colleagues than any other member of the Senate. His work in committees especially has won for him a warm friendship, members knowing that Stephens will not shirk his duty and will report out more than his pro rata share of bills.

Grenada Bank Holds Meet In Cleveland

Delta Bank Host to Gathering of Officers and Stockholders of System at Semi-Annual Affair Monday, July 9.

The July semi-annual meeting of stockholders and officers of the Grenada Bank system of banks was held Monday, July 9, in Cleveland, with J. C. Fair, cashier of the system's Cleveland bank, acting as host. The business session was held early Monday morning at which the usual semiannual dividend of seven per cent was declared. The general program of music and speaking, open to the public, was held in the auditorium of the Delta State Teachers College.

J. T. Thomas, president of the system,, was chairman and he opened the program with an appropriate address. W. M. Kethley, president of the college, welcomed the visitors to Cleveland and to the college and the response was made by J. H. Caldwell, of Charleston. Judge Audley W. Shands, of Cleveland, delivered the feature address of the occasion, his subject being "Honesty in Pecuniary Matters".

Judge Herbert Elmore was master of ceremonies during the elegant luncheon served in the college dining hall. Short talks were made while the luncheon was in progress by Supt. B. B. Brooks, of Belzoni, J. M. Kuykendall, of Charleston, J. W. Weilenman, of Shaw, W. F. Bond, state superintendent of education, of Jackson, J. P. Flournoy, New Orleans, La., Floyd Parker, of Canton, W. W. Simmons, of Cleveland, Ed Livingston, of Louisville, O. J. Turner, of Belzoni, and B. C. Adams, of Grenada.

This was the first time in its history that the bank system held this semi-annual affair away from Grenada but Mr. Fair, and those who aided him in arranging for the entertainment of the visitors, left nothing undone to make the day a most enjoyable one.

CROP NEEDING RAIN

The crops are needing rain. Cotton, with the exception of that recently freed from grass, is not suffering but corn is, and particularly old corn. The absence of rain for the past two weeks, following as it does the continued rains in June and a wet year throughout, makes a few weeks of dry weather very noticeable. July has furnished the first really hot weather of the season, real cotton growing weather and cotton has been growing, too. Many farmers report presence of boll weevil. The amount of corn that will be produced in this section depends in a large measure upon the yield of late corn.

Health Report Shows Death Rate To Be .6%

Annual Report of Dr. J. W. Young Challenges Any City of Like Size in Nation to Beat This Record.

The following report of Dr. J. W. Young, city health officer, made to the city council, shows Grenada to be as healthful as any town in the country:

I beg to hand you this mortuary report for the twelve months past. I am indebted to Garner Bros. and R. Fox, colored, undertakers, for this report.

From July, 1925, to July 1926, there were 33 deaths in the city limits; from July, 1926, to July, 1927, there were 52 deaths; from July, 1927, to July, 1928, there were 24 deaths, 9 white and 15 colored. Of the whole number of deaths during the past year up to date, one was over 90 years, two over 80 years, three over 70 years, two over 60; the balance were from one day to fifty years of age.

This makes about six per thousand in population or six-tenths of one per cent. I challenge any town of the same size as Grenada, in the whole United States to beat this record, especially if they have as large a per cent of colored population and have kept an exact record as we have.

Not being physically able to look after sanitary conditions of the city I cannot give the existing conditions. The health officer has always insisted on the muzzling of all dogs during the spring and summer. I have not seen a single muzzled dog in three years, and sitting on my porch this spring and summer I have noted more dogs than heretofore.

The health officer has always insisted on draining or oiling ponds and pools of water to destroy malaria producing mosquitoes. I note that these little pests are already beginning to multiply. All residents not on sewer lines should be required to install sanitary closets. We have been comparatively free from contagious diseases, having had a few cases of measles, whooping cough and influenza, but none of fatal consequences.

For twelve months I have been physically unable to attend to the duties of the health officer as should have been done, therefore I do not expect or claim any salary for the past year. Today I tender my resignation as health officer to take effect immediately.

Thanking the present and former boards for their co-operation and courtesy, I am,

Respectfully,
(Signed) J. W. YOUNG,
City Health Officer

R. D. SHARP BACK FROM FURNITURE STYLE SHOW

The [illegible]orative importance of color [illegible]odern interior furnishing [illegible]ecoration grows greater year[illegible]ear, says Mr. R. D. Sharp, of t[illegible]Sharp Furniture Co., who has [illegible] returned from the furniture [illegible]yle show in the American fu[illegible]re mart at Chicago to choose s[illegible] for his store for the coming [illegible] and to acquire new ideas in [illegible]ing his community in step with [illegible]iture developments.

In upholstered furniture, in [illegible]ngings, in wood finishes and even [illegible] refrigerators, stoves and china, the quest for gay colors in noticeable. At the American furniture mart I saw hundreds of designs and color combinations, original productions and importations, which show that the drab, colorless furniture of former years has been put on the scrap heap.

"The furniture manufacturers are concentrating, too, on making comfortable, durable furniture. They have produced designs which prove that color harmony can be achieved in a room, without storing all the comfortable pieces of furniture in the attic."

Like 7,500 other furniture dealers throughout the country, Mr Sharp finds it necessary to visit the mart at least twice each year to keep informed on new designs, finishes, upholstery and styles, to care, adequately, for his community's taste for the best. Furniture styles shown in advance to the retailers are the styles which prevail throughout the world in the following year.

Fads and freaks will not prevail, but the trend toward modern furniture and its beautiful coloring is not faddy and is distinctly worth while, he holds.

Wilson Vigorously Attacks Stephens In Speech Here Thursday, July 5th

Makes Wooden Horse of the "Nigger" and Seeks to Hold Stephens Responsible for Alleged Buying and Selling of Federal Offices in Mississippi—Forgets that If Stephens Failed in This Matter So Also Did Senator Harrison—Said Nothing about Stephens Calling Hoover to Taw abut Making Whites and Negroes Work Together in Department of Commerce—Seems to Forget that Senator Stephens Is Known at Capital as Doer of Things While Many Others Talk—Wilson Is Young and Has Much Yet to Learn in Statecraft—Campaign He Is Making Not Calculated to Inspire His Friends—Citing of Memphis Postoffice Case Puts Him "Out of Court"—Does Not Touch Fundamentals of Democratic Party or National Issues of 1928.

Hon. Webber Wilson, of Laurel, Jones County, congressman from the sixth district, addressed an audience of about seventy-five at the court house in Grenada on the night of July 5, according to previous announcement, in the interest of his candidacy for the United States senate against Hon. Hubert D. Stephens, who is now serving his first term as a senator.

Mr. Wilson was reared at Coldwater, Tate County, thirty-one miles south of Memphis. His father, Dr. J. J. Wilson, was one of the leading physicians of that section, and a most excellent man and an upright Christian gentleman. Dr. C. K. Bailey was also reared in Coldwater, and he and Mr. Wilson have known each other from their earliest years up until now. It was but natural therefore that Dr. Bailey should have introduced the candidate, a thing which he did in good style and effectively.

Mr. Wilson began by recounting his political triumphs, how, after only about one year's residence in Laurel, he was chosen prosecuting attorney over two other men in the first primary, and then after four years of service as county prosecuting attorney, he had triumphed over two other men in the first primary. He stated that he then ran for congress, to succeed Judge Paul Johnson, who won over Gov. Bilbo while the latter was Governor the first time, and that he again was a winner. He stated that he had served now six years in the lower house of congress and left no doubt in the minds of the few who heard him that he was more than anxious to be sent to the United States Senate. In his race for congress, he stated that he had carried every county in his district save one and lost than only by about 50 votes. He said that he was in Washington City but a short while until almost every leading newspaper in the country had his name on its front page and that President Coolidge had made some kindly reference to him.

He said that when Senator Stephens ran for the senate six years ago the district he had represented in congress for ten years did not give him a majority. He failed to state that prior to Sen. Stephens' race for the senate, six years ago, he had voluntarily retired from the lower house of congress, a place which the best political judges agree he could have retained as long as he desired, with the purpose of returning to the practice of law and of getting out of politics. He failed to state that Senator Stephens was literally drafted to make that race and one of the particular reasons why it was thought he would be a strong candidate was that the then Senator was known to be politically strong in that district and against all comers. He did not state, either, that those who picked Senator Stephens seemed to have been pretty good judges of a "winning horse".

He referred at some length to his challenge to Senator Stephens for joint political discussions and the latter's declination, and it appeared that he sought to leave the impression that Senator Stephens could not take care of himself on the stump. He failed to state that Senator Stephens himself does not claim to be an orator, and that some of the greatest men and wisest statesmen the country ever knew were not fond of "spieling", among whom could first be named Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Democratic party and that man who saved the United States in the very beginning from being placed in the hands of those whose power and influence in public affairs was to be measured alone in law by the amount of property they had. Another one of the country's greatest presidents was Cleveland. Speech-making, outside of the courts, was hardly less than a bore to him.

He said that Senator Stephens had challenged his opponent for joint discussions six years ago when he knew he was down and out physically and unable really to appear on the stump. Will Mr. Wilson say he did not support Senator Stephens in that contest?

The small audiences said to be appearing where Mr. Wilson speaks do not seem to warrant the statement made in one of his letters to Senator Stephens wherein he promised the Senator if he "would come and go with me", that thousands would greet them—maybe they would greet Senator Stephens, but they are undoubtedly not greeting him.

He was caustic at times in referring to Senator Stephens, and devoted the greater part of his speech to criticism of the Senator about the alleged selling and buying of federal offices in Mississippi through the negro, Perry Howard, Republican national committeeman from this state. He spoke of the speech which he made in the lower house of congress arraigning Howard and condemning those who are alleged to have paid Howard for federal appointments. Mr. Wilson stated that he introduced a bill seeking to stop such practices but does not state whether or not he appeared before any commitee of the house to urge his bill or whether he just made a speech and introduced his bill and, like casting a piece of timber on the waters of a floating river, there let fate take care of it.

He said that Senator Stephens had asked that "he bring the proof" about office selling but he stated that he was no errand boy for any senator. He said that Senator Stephens had the veto power over nominations, a power not given to the lower house of congress. He overlooked the fact that Article 2 of Sec. 2 of the Constitution states that the president shall make appointments "by and with the advice and the consent of the senate", and that it takes a majority of the senate to defeat any nomination submitted by the President.

Mr. Wilson seemed to think that it was the duty of Senator Stephens to go out on a fishing expedition for one faction of Mississippi Republicans as against the other; in other words, Mr. Wilson would rake the chestnuts out of the fire for the Republicans of Mississippi who are "out". There are lots of people in Mississippi who believe that as regards many Mississippi Republicans, there is little choice. Mr. Wilson, it would appear, would have Senator Stephens get up and rant in the senate about every rumor or allegation about the alleged sale of federal patronage, when every man who knows anything about senatorial procedure, or the workings of congress, knows that it takes something more than charges or rumors to be effective in the Senate. When a nomination is submitted by the President, unless the relations are such between a senator and the appointee that the senator can appeal to his colleagues for the exercise of "senatorial courtesy", and to defeat the nominee because he "is personally distasteful" to the objecting senator, the senator fighting the nomination must file some charges backed by substantial proof. Mr. Wilson was unfortunate in citing the defeat of Taylor, appointed by President Coolidge, to be postmaster at Memphis. He said that when a senator had the right sort of mettle he would know how to do things like Senator McKellar of Tennessee, whose home is in Memphis, and who got the senate to refuse the confirmation of Taylor. He failed to state McKellar's fight on Taylor was on personal grounds, and as already cited, one of those cases where Senator McKellar could give good reasons for saying that the nominee was "personally distasteful" to him. Taylor did the foolish thing of breaking into the newspapers and scoring McKellar on more than one occasion, and McKellar had what Taylor had said in black and white. Taylor's was just another case of talking too much, a lesson that it seems hard for the world to learn and even for some candidates to learn. Mr. Wilson failed to say that Senator Stephens was instrumental in getting a nomination for a U. S. marshalship for Mississippi held up for three weeks by the senate committee awaiting affidavits which were promised against him and which never did materialize. "Talk" and furnishing the proof so that it will stand up before any investigating body, are very different things. Mr. Wilson evidently did not know that in all matters charging the bartering of office in Mississippi, Sen. Stephens has asked for affidavits, and that thus far, none has been forthcoming.

Mr. Wilson stated that he had the proof of the sale of offices by "the nigger Perry Howard", as he put it, but he did not say why he had not given the public the benefit of it, unless he thought it best for his purposes to save it until after the campaign for the senate which he thinks he is making is over. He was loud and caustic in what he said especially about "the niggers" and the sale of offices. He said that when one reached the door of the U. S. supreme court, it

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Sentinel is authorized to announce the following as candidates for Congress of the United States from the Fourth Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic Primaries in August:

For Congress
(Fourth Congressional District)

JEFF BUSBY, of Chickasaw County
C. H. ALDRIDGE, of Montgomery County.
A. T. PATTERSON, of Calhoun County

OUR CHOICE FOR U. S. SENATOR
HUBERT D. STEPHENS
FOR RE-ELECTION

SENATOR HUBERT STEPHENS SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED.

If ability to do things, if faithfulness to duty, if keeping faith with his people, if being true to the traditions of the South and to the welfare of Mississippi, if loyalty to friends and to that which is highest and best in public life warrant any man in asking for a second term and for an endorsement from the people whom he has served, then Senator Stephens is entitled to a second term in the United States senate.

Hubert Stephens is a plain man. He is a man of the people. He is without ostentation or show. He loves the life of his home people and of Mississippi. He delights in his friends. He has demonstrated his ability as district attorney of his district, as a member of the lower house of congress for ten years and as a United States senator for six years. He is a man of rare talent. He has that tact and that ability that enable him to go about any task discreetly and intelligently. He is pacific by nature and tolerant to a commendable degree, but when forced into a verbal combat or one where maybe force may be necessary, he has never been known to wince or to hesitate to apply that which is necessary to bring the aggrieved to terms.

There is no man in the United States senate with more personal friends than Hubert Stephens, and in the last analysis, friends are one's biggest asset, they are an asset far above rubies, and particularly are friends indispensable to that public man who is honestly and conscientiously trying to serve his people.

Hubert Stephens does not needlessly antagonize, but on the other hand, he tries always first to persuade those with whom he is associated to see matters from his viewpoint.

Some years ago, the courts held that the United States government had no right to levy several forms of special taxes, one of which was on cotton, on the people of Mississippi just after the Civil War. Efforts have been made by sundry members of congress and by many senators at different times to get a bill through congress whereby this money could be returned to those from whom it was taken. But it was left to Senator Hubert Stephens at the last session of congress to get a bill through the senate providing for the return of eight million dollars of this tax money to the people of Mississippi. That is a great achievement in itself, but it is just one of the many things that this working United States senator has done. While others at times beat the air and talk to the galleries in the hope that what they say will get back to the people at home, Senator Stephens is at work and is willing to let what he has done show his worth rather than a volley of words or oratorical effusions.

Those who ought to be in a position to know and who should be acquainted with the views of the people in every part of the state, assert that he is going to be overwhelmingly re-elected, and that there is an onswelling tide in all sections of Mississippi that gives double assurance that the people believe in him and that they want him returned to the senate because of his high character and because of his achievements in matters of legislation.

Gov. Bilbo is out of the state and Lt. Gov. Bidwell Adam is at the helm of state. It is Bidwell's first tryout, and let it be hoped that he will act wisely. Bidwell Adam has made many friends among those who opposed him in the campaign last year and is evidently a young man of good poise and with honest intentions.

Do Not Pay Cash For Ice Coupon Books

Drivers of our ice wagons are positively forbidden to accept cash for ice coupon books. They are authorized to accept checks only so that we may be enabled to keep a strict account of book sales. Paying by check enables you to keep a record of the payment and may obviate any future misunderstanding.

If you must pay cash wait until we send a collector to you.

If you do not buy a coupon book, cash payments will be acceptable for daily ice purchases. You will help us greatly if you will give us your cooperation.

ANITY.

It is to be hoped for the sake of Christianity and the cause of the church that no appreciable number of those high in the councils of the churches will undertake any aggressive fight in the presidential campaign. Ministers are entitled to their views on public matters and on the character of men seeking office just as all others are. And it is right that they should stress the necessity of always standing foursquare on moral issues, but there is a delicate dividing line between these things and a minister's open and avowed proclamations for or against the standard bearers of any party.

Past experience does not show that when church leaders have intruded themselves as such into political discussions, the spiritual life and understanding of those over whom, for the time being, they have spiritual stewardship, have prospered. It is a time for prayer among church leaders and for serious meditation. The laymen of America have always rebelled against the attempted leadership of the clergy outside of the domains of the church. They will today.

At the late conventions of the two major parties, men high in the councils of the Protestant churches were present to urge upon these conventions certain courses. We have wondered what these same leaders would have done and said had the Roman Catholic church done a similar thing(?)

This is a great government, the greatest under the sun. This is a great country, the greatest in all the world. But it is the Lord's; He made it and not man. The orderly processes of this Nation could not have been developed without that silent and powerful and unseen force of the church. This has been true because the church is God's mouthpiece. Therefore let us hope that those named to lead in church affairs will see the wisdom of having but little to say about candidates, but that the old time power may be invoked to lead the people to the mountain tops where they may breathe that atmosphere which is made by the wings of the Angels, and when this is done, all other things will get in order.

IF STEPHENS IS GUILTY SO IS PAT HARRISON

If reports can be relied upon, Congressman Webber Wilson, who is running against Hubert Stephens for the United States senate, is making a new record on his trip to north Mississippi.

Congressman Wilson has published in the newspapers that he has never spoken to "empty benches"—that the crowds flock to hear him.

This does not seem to be true as to his trip through Chickasaw, Calhoun and other counties of that section. There were plenty of "empty benches" at most of his appointments, one person who actually made the count saying that he spoke to exactly forty-six people in the thriving little city of Houston.

Congressman Wilson brings serious charges against Senators Harrison and Stephens.

He only mentions Senator Stephens, but one cannot be guilty of the offense without the other sharing the responsibility. In fact, the Senior senator is more responsible for the condition, if it exists, than the Junior senator, for he is supposed to have more influence.

This is in regard to Perry Howard and his supposed influence. Congressman Wilson intimates that Senator Stephens should have enough influence with the Republican party to kill Howard off in this state.

If Congressman Wilson wants to be fair and to hold the esteem of the people of Mississippi, he will either leave off criticism of Senator Stephens in this connection, or else include in his criticism Senator Harrison.

If one is guilty, both are guilty.

The fact that Congressman Wilson wants the place held by Senator Stephens does not make the activities of Perry Howard objectionable, but one would judge that from reports of the Congressman's speeches.

Mr. Wilson should either drop his criticism of Senator Stephens, or include Senator Harrison.

If he don't the people will show him on election day what they think of that kind of a fighter.—Jackson Clarion-Ledger July 9.

TAKE THE STAND, WEBBER!

Congressman T. Webber Wilson charges that Senator Hubert Stephens had full knowledge of the sale of postoffices in Mississippi by negro Republicans, and that he failed to oppose the confirmation of persons to whom these offices were sold.

Senator Stephens replies that he possessed no such knowledge, and defies his opponent to prove the contrary.

By implication, at least, Congressman Wilson charges that postoffices have actually been bought and sold in Mississippi, and he must have some rather substantial evidence to that effect, otherwise he would not make the charge.

If this is true, then it is the first and foremost duty of Congressman Wilson to go immediately to Atlanta, where a special Senate investigating committee is now in session, and place his evidence before that body.

There is nothing at all surprising in the charge, but it is one thing to suspect postoffices of being bought and sold, but quite another thing to prove it. To fully establish the charges before duly constituted authorities is vastly more important than attempting to use the charges to the disadvantage of an opponent in a political primary.

It is time for Mr. Wilson to take the witness stand against the Republican patronage dispensers in Mississippi.—Jackson Daily News.

THE FELLOWSHIP FORUM RANTS.

The "Fellowship Forum", published at Washington City, rants about Al Smith and Joe Robinson. It is a Ku Klux publication and its existence depends upon its being able to keep some people in a hurrah so that while the hurrah is on the coin may jostle from their pockets and into the coffers of the Ku Klux leaders. It thrives on ignorance. What it is saying about Al Smith and Joe Robinson, it would say about Hoover and Curtis if it would serve to hoodwink its readers and those who make its existence possible. It does seem that after the revelations as to Stephenson, now in a murderer's cell, and other Klan leaders in Indiana, and how the Klan played the Republicans there, and what has been shown as to the thousands upon thousands of dollars collected by the heads of the Klan in different parts of the country, there would be but few who have so little judgment as to be led into any more blind alleys.

Much of the political hash that will be served throughout the country during this presidential campaign is just the same sort of hash that has been dished out for many years in national campaigns. Of course the electorate gives so little thought to great public questions and are so absorbed with "my business", that they will never recognize it and will gulp it down as a canine does what is fed him.

Dodge Brothers Standard Six is the fastest car, with the fastest pick-up, under a thousand dollars.

HOWEVER

That is only HALF the story. The IMPORTANT point is that this exceptional speed is made practical by Dodge ruggedness of chassis and body construction

OTHERS

Might succeed in building a car at this price with equal SPEED, but to do so successfully they would also have to build a car with equal STURDINESS . .

AND

That is where Dodge Brothers, with years of experience in building a dependable low-cost product, are years ahead of the field.

YOU

Can buy the Standard Six knowing that it is not only the fastest car in its class but the sturdiest—and the one is every bit as important as the other . .

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for July 15

THE CONVERSION OF SAUL.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1-9, 22:6-16.

GOLDEN TEXT—This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptation, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Saul Becomes a Christian.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Saul Becomes a Christian.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Saul Became a Christian.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Conversion of a Pharisee.

I. Saul's Violent Hatred of the Lord's Disciples (vv. 1, 2).

Saul knew full well that unless the movement set on foot by Jesus was stopped it would supersede Judaism. He was ignorant of the genius of Christianity. He did not know that the "blood of martyrs is the seed of the church." Prosperity may ruin the church, but persecution, never. The noble display of faith by Stephen in sealing his testimony with his blood did not soften Saul's spirit, but rather intensified his hatred for Jesus and His disciples. The intensity of his madness, and the extent of its operations are best set forth in his own words, "And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women" (Acts 22:4). "I both shut up many of the saints in prison, having received authority from the chief priests, and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them, and punishing them oft in all the synagogues I strove to make them blaspheme, and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted even unto foreign cities" (Acts 26:10-12, R. V.). He obtained authority from the high priest in order to carry on this murderous work.

II. Saul Kicking Against the Pricks (vv. 3-9).

The figure here is that of the eastern ox driver following the ox with a sharp iron fixed to the end of a pole. The animal is prodded with this instrument and if it is refractory it kicks against the sharp iron and injures itself.

1. A light from Heaven (vv. 3, 4a).

The time had come for the Lord to interfere. Saul was stricken with blindness and fell to the earth. This physical demonstration accentuated the workings of his conscience which doubtless were going on quickened by the Holy Spirit as He used Stephen's testimony.

2. A voice from Heaven (vv. 4b, 5).

This was the Lord's voice calling Saul by name and asking, "Why persecutest thou me?" This moved Saul to inquire, "Who art thou, Lord?" The answer came, "I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest." As if to say, persecution of the church is persecution of Jesus.

3. Saul's inquiry (v. 6), "What wilt thou have me to do?"

The dictator is now willing to be dictated to. The Lord told him to go into the city where information would be given him as to what he must do.

4. Saul entering Damascus (vv. 7-9).

The haughty persecutor went quite humbly into Damascus, led by his attendants. For the space of three days he remained blind, and fasted. What went on in his soul in those days no mortal can know, but we may be assured that he, like the Lord in the wilderness, was too deep in meditation and prayer to desire food. In these days of deep meaning his whole life was being reorganized by Jesus Christ.

III. Ananias Ministers to Saul (vv. 10-19).

1. Ananias' vision (vv. 10-12).

In this vision the Lord appeared and instructed him to go to Saul. He gave him the name of the street and Saul's host, and informed him that Saul was now a praying man, and that He had prepared Saul by the vision for the coming of Ananias. When the Lord would bring persons together He gives them signs by which they may unerringly go.

2. Ananias' fear and hesitancy (vv. 13-16).

He knew of Saul's ministry and the authority by which he came. The Lord encouraged him to go, assuring him that Saul was no longer an enemy but a chosen vessel to bear His name before the Gentiles, kings, and the children of Israel, and the badge of his commission should be great suffering for Christ.

3. Ananias' obedience (v. 17).

His fears being removed, Ananias went to the house where Saul was staying, put his hand on him and affectionately addressed him as "Brother Saul." The hitherto savage persecutor is now a brother in Christ. Ananias informed Saul that the Lord had sent him with a two-fold mission:

(1) "That thou mightest receive thy sight."

(2) "Be filled with the Holy Spirit."

He received his sight forthwith. It is not said that he received the Holy Ghost then, but his life work proves that he did.

4. Saul baptized (vv. 18, 19).

After Saul received his sight Ananias baptized him. Since Ananias was not a church official, it is clearly implied that official rank is not necessary for the administration of baptism. The Lord bestows the gift of the Spirit upon whomsoever He will, and may designate anyone whether occupying an official position or not, to lay hands upon individuals. This is especially significant since ministry was to be entirely independent of the apostles.

CONGRESSMAN BUSBY IGNORSE ALDRIDGE JOINT CANVASS INVITATION

After the lapse of one week, in which Congressman Jeff Busby has made no reply, a letter addressed to him by Hon. Chas. H. Aldridge, is herewith reproduced as follows:

Winona, Miss., July 3, 1928.

Hon. Jeff Busby
Houston, Mississippi,
Dear Mr. Busby:

I am submitting for your consideration a proposal that we make a joint speaking canvass of the counties of the Fourth Congressional District, for the purpose of presenting our respective candidacies for Congress. You are serving your third term in Congress. I have served for an equal period of time in the Mississippi Legislature. Thus we both have legislative records which we should be glad to discuss before the people for the purpose of comparison, that they might make an intelligent choice between us.

In accepting this challenge to "joint debate" you are privileged to name the place or county to begin, in your county or mine, or that of our other opponent, Mr. Patterson. This invitation also includes Mr. Patterson, but is addressed to you because our legislative service has made us records, and Mr. Patterson has no legislative record to discuss.

You may also select the number of speeches to be made in each county, not less than three to the county, and no county to be omitted from the list. The minor details can no doubt be satisfactorily arranged by our campaign managers.

Considering the great strides our beloved State is making in development along all lines of progress, and how important it is that our people have the benefit of most intelligent, capable and efficient service in public affairs, and particularly in national councils, you will appreciate my desire to give our constituents the fullest opportunity to make a choice between us in the great deliberative body to which we both aspire. In this, I am sure you will both agree with me.

By the time the details herein proposed are arranged, the people should be up with their work and receptive to a hearing from us in the short intervening time till the first primary. Heretofore, it has been impractical to conduct this sort of campaign, on account of backward crop conditions. As to campaigning, we are on an equal footing. Earlier in the year, I was serving in the Legislature while you were in Congress. When I returned from the Legislature, I had my own farming to do, along with my neighbors, and you were at home from Congress before I had the chance to more than announce my candidacy, about the time you did.

I hope to be favored with an immediate reply. Come on in, the water will be fine when you make the plunge.

Yours very truly,
C. H. ALDRIDGE.

N. B.—Mr. Busby could not have ignored ou challenge because he had to look after Perry Howard, for he has just written Senator Brookhart's committee investigating Perry, which is in session at Atlanta, Ga., that he "will be detained at home until the early days of September." If Mr. Busby had confided to us that he wanted to unload on Perry, we would gladly have suspended our campaign activities until his return from Atlanta and then taken up the matter of a joint canvass. C. H. A.

Government authorities tell us that thirty different diseases are transmitted by flies. Any one of these often proves fatal. Flies must be killed. Use the scientific product developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Fellowship. It is fragrant and harmless to mankind but death to all household insects. Just follow instructions on blue label of bottle. INSIST on FLY-TOX from your retailer.—Adv.

TO THE PEOPLE OF GRENADA

I expect to be out of jail Monday and ready to take charge of my business once more after being away from it for ninety days. I went to Oxford this week and paid my fine and costs amounting to $285. This, in addition to what I paid for license assessment, has absolutely stripped me financially. My business has suffered terribly during my absence and many of my good customers haven't been able to get the service they were accustomed to. My wife hasn't been in the best of health and this, together with the fact that she has had to look after our little babies, has kept her from giving the store the attention it required.

I want all of you to know that you will now get the best of service at all times and I want you to phone your orders to me. The choicest fruits and vegetables I'll have for you every day as well as nice fresh fish. The best of everything in groceries you know is at my store. Won't all of you help me get on my feet again by giving me a part of your business?

I am grateful to the many good people of Grenada who interested themselves in my case and who tried to secure my freedom. You have been mighty good to me and I deeply appreciate your kindness.

Respectfully,
SAM BARRANCO

NOTICE TO WATER CONSUMERS AND PRIVILEGE TAX PAYERS

The laws of the city of Grenada require that water bills shall be paid on or before the 5th of the month in order to obtain the discount of 30 per cent. This notice is printed on all water receipts. After the 5th of the month, exculding Sundays and holidays, the gross charges obtain, and if the gross charge is not paid by the 10th of the month, the water is cut off without notice.

Beginning with the month of August, 1928, these regulations will be strictly enforced.

Also, on all privilege taxes not paid in the month when due, the damages provided by law will be charged and collected after August, 1928.

July 10, 1928. W. S. P. DOTY, Mayor.

TO HOLDERS OF
Third Liberty Loan Bonds

The Treasury offers a new 3½ per cent. 12-15 year Treasury bond in exchange for Third Liberty Loan Bonds.

The new bonds will bear interest from July 16, 1928. Interest on Third Liberty Loan Bonds surrendered for exchange will be paid in full to September 15, 1928.

Holders should consult their banks at once for further details of this offering.

Third Liberty Loan Bonds mature on September 15, 1928, and will cease to bear interest on that date.

A. W. MELLON,
Secretary of the Treasury.

NERVES Went to Pieces

"I suffered a long time, before I tried Cardui," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "K" St., Anderson, S. C.

"I was badly run-down in health. My nerves 'went to pieces', and I had to go to bed.

"I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild.

"One day I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it. It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable my family and friends were delighted."

Try Cardui for your troubles. At all drug stores.

Rushing-Gibson.

Marriage vows were pronounced Wednesday, July 11, between Rev. H. I. Rushing and Miss Thelma Gibson, the ceremony taking place at the bride's home in Hightower, Texas.

Mr. Rushing, who is a graduate of Mississippi College, is pastor of the Pleasant Grove, Graysport, Enon and Hardy churches in Grenada county. He makes his home in Hardy and has been elected principal of the Hardy school for another year. He expects to devote his time to teaching and preaching in this county for the next several years at least. Those who have got to know Mr. Rushing have been impressed with his quiet dignity and his sincerity of aim and purpose. He has endeared himself to the people of the various communities he is serving and all of them are interested in his future success and happiness.

His bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gibson, of Hightower. She received her education at Sam Houston State Normal College and Stephen F. Austin State Teachers College in Texas. For the past year she has been engaged in teaching. The Sentinel joins in extending her a welcome to Grenada county and feels sure that she will make a most valuable addition to its citizenship.

LATIMER AIDS BURBANK IN GETTING RATE REDUCTION

A front page item in the June 30th issue of the Burbank, Calif., News-Press reflects great credit on W. S. Latimer, manager of the telephone company in that city, for his efforts in securing a rate reduction for patrons of the company. The Burbank chamber of commerce extended a special vote of thanks to Mr. Latimer for the consideration shown the city in handling the rate adjustments.

Mr. Latimer, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Latimer, was reared in Grenada. When his parents moved to the western state some years ago, he accompanied them. The Sentinel congratulates him on the recognition that is being accorded him and it rejoices every time anything good comes to one of Grenada's former citizens. The Latimers have a host of friends in and near Grenada who are always interested in hearing some word from them.

MRS. C. W. LOTT, OF HOLCOMB, DIED TUESDAY

Mrs. C. W. Lott, wife of Constable Lott, passed away at her home one mile southeast of Holcomb Tuesday night, July 10, and was laid to rest the next afternoon at Mt. Moriah burying ground after funeral services from the Baptist church conducted by Dr. W. E. Farr of Grenada. Mrs. Lott leaves a husband and seven children to mourn her demise. She was a kind, good woman and in the years ago had made a profession of religion and joined the Baptist church. She left a legacy to the world in her children of whom it is hoped that they may walk in the paths of righteousness and finally join their mother in the Great Beyond. To the grief stricken The Sentinel tenders sincere sympathy.

POSTAGE RATES CHANGED

Washington, July 3, 1928.

In order to make certain that the public understands the meaning of the new service created by the act of May 29, 1928, with reference to the handling of parcel post, the following notice has been issued by the First Assistant Postmaster General:

"A New Special Service for Parcel Post

"Under a new law enacted by the last Congress and made effective on July 1, 1928, a new service was created with reference particularly to the expeditions handling and delivery of parcel post. While this new service is called 'SPECIAL DELIVERY,' it has the effect of making all classes of mail except the first, namely, the second-class mail, the third-class mail, and the fourth-class mail, all have the same expeditious treatment as first-class mail IN TRANSIT, PLUS SPECIAL DELIVERY at the office of the addressee by marking the same 'Special Delivery' and placing on such mail the following postage in addition to the regular postage, namely, 15c on matter weighing not more than two pounds; 25c on matter weighing more than two pounds but not more than ten pounds; 35c on matter weighing more than ten pounds.

"It is necessary to put on the additional postage as above stated and mark it 'special delivery.' It is a combination of the former 'special-handling' service and the 'special-delivery' service. It will be seen that the combined service now is cheaper than the sum of the cost of the two former services.

"Mailers desiring 'special-handling' service in transit without 'special delivery' at the office of the addressee may, if they desire, secure this service at the following rates, namely, 10 cents on parcels weighing not more than 2 pounds; 15 cents on parcels weighing more than 2 pounds but not more than 10 pounds; 20 cents on parcels weighing more than 10 pounds.

"There is no 'special delivery' now which does not carry with it also special handling in transit, so that if the mailer purchases special-delivery service now as above specified he thereby secures also special-handling service."

JOHN H. BARTLETT,
Acting Postmaster General
First Assistant Postmaster General.

LOCAL POST ELECTS

Jim Trimble Post, number 35, the American Legion, held a meeting in the mayor's office Tuesday evening and the following officers were elected to serve the remainder of this year: James B. Keeton, Commander, G. M. Lawrence, Adjutant, Tom E. Neely, vice-Commander.

S. E. Corley, Ass't State Service Commissioner, was present and discussed the boxing law in detail, also the workings of the Service Commission. Much "pep" was shown in the meeting and the ground work was arranged for a county wide drive this fall at which time 150 members is the goal.

10 YEARS AGO IN GRENADA

From the Files of THE GRENADA SENTINEL

Mr. William Ables, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ables of the eastern part of the county, went to Memphis Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of enlisting in the aviation corps.

The First Baptist Church has given the pastor, Rev. J. B. Quin, a month's vacation which he will spend in South Mississippi in evangelistic work. Mrs. Quin and children will go to Hazlehurst to be with her mother.

Miss Marion Rollins was called from her post of duty at the Bank of Louisville to take charge of the Bank of Holcomb for ten days during which time Mr. Tullos is taking a hard-earned vacation.

Mrs. W. H. Whitaker is in Montreat, N. C. as the representative of the Synod of Mississippi in the meeting of the Woman's Advisory Committee and Summer School of Missions of the Southern Presbyterian Church.

A postal from Rev. J. W. Lee to the editor conveys the information that Mr. Lee is conducting a revival meeting in Memphis and that he will be unable to fill his appointment at the First Baptist Church next Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Pressgrove returned home Sunday from Charleston, where she had been on a visit to Miss Alma Caldwell. Miss Caldwell returned with her and stayed over for the dance Wednesday night.

Miss Corine Perry, who has been teaching school in Arkansas for the past two years, spent a few days with her parents near Graysport before entering Draughon's Business College in Memphis.

Mr. William W. Taylor, who is pleasantly remembered in Grenada and who is now doing some sawmill work for the government at Rison, Ark., was in Grenada for the fourth and for several days thereafter mingling with his many friends and acquaintances.

The younger married set entertained at Spring Lake Club Monday evening from 6 to 11 with a delightful picnic in honor of that attractive young matron, Mrs. J. L. Barnard, of New Orleans.

Mr. Andrew Carothers will speak to the children of Grenada at the Baptist Church Sunday morning at 10:45. Bring offering for the orphans of France.

Misses Hester and Alma Long have returned from Clinton where they attended summer school at Mississippi College for the past few weeks.

Mrs. W. C. McLean entertained at her lovely home at the intersection of Main and Line Streets Thursday afternoon in honor of Mrs. J. L. Barnard.

Harper Hughes celebrated the 4th by going to Memphis and enlisting in the navy. This makes Mrs. Hughes' second son to join the colors, John having enlisted several weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert George motored to Jackson last Sunday for a week's stay with friends and relatives and from Jackson they will go to Vicksburg to visit other friends.

Mr. C. C. White and wife are among the new additions to the social life of Grenada. Mr. and Mrs. White will have rooms at Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown's. Mr. White represents a school furnishing company of Chicago.

They called her a soulless "gold-digger" but—

Do you remember the sensational breach of promise suit, a few years ago, by a humble flower-girl against her young millionaire lover and his wealthy mother? At the trial many ugly charges were hurled at the girl. She was called a "gold-digger," a blackmailer; a shameless creature who loved only money and the luxury money could buy.

But when, in a voice broken by sobs, she told her pitiful story, men hardened to sorrow wiped their eyes furtively—women in the court-room wept aloud.

Then came that dramatic and unlooked-for conclusion. An unexpected witness was called to the stand—and in ten words hurled into the tense silence of the crowded court-room a bombshell that reverberated to the ends of the earth.

Most people were stunned by the unexpected outcome of the trial. Even today few suspect the true history of events behind that tremendous drama of intrigue, suffering and deathless love.

But now the entire story has been told by the girl who was the central figure in that amazing drama. Told in words that will bring tears to your eyes—tears of joy, of sorrow, of understanding and sympathy.

5¢ worth of ELECTRICITY

What a wonderful nickel's worth it is!

5¢ spent for electricity will run a washing machine for two hours.

5¢ spent for electricity will keep the refrigerator cold for six hours

5¢ spent for electricity will make a hot kitchen comfortable with an electric fan for ten hours.

5¢ spent for electricity will run a vacuum cleaner for three hours.

5¢ spent for electricity will run a sewing machine for seven hours.

5¢ spent for electricity will light your reading lamp for two long evenings.

MOST of the good things of life cost much more than they did in 1914; electricity, the shining exception, actually costs no more. This is a record of which the electrical industry is justly proud.

It means that you can use electricity freely and still be very economical. It means that no American husband ought to allow his wife to waste time and energy in doing one single household task that electricity can do for a few cents an hour.

TRAVELS HUNDRED MILES FOR SARGON

"I've Found The Right Medicine At Last and Never Spent Money To Better Advantage", Says J. H. Lewis.

"I came over 100 miles to get Sargon and I never spent money to better advantage", said J. H. Lewis, while visiting his daughter at 2601 Lillian St., Shreveport, La. Mr. Lewis, who lives in De Queen, Ark., is a Master Mason, and is Past Master of Lodge No. 461. He was for twelve years Supervisor of Construction for the Kansas City Southern R. R., and for the past five years has been with the Dierks Lumber Co.

"Last year I suffered a stroke of paralysis, which left me in a broken physical condition. It affected my entire intestinal tract, which caused constipation, gas and constant pains in my side and back. My tongue was coated, I was bilious and very nervous.

"I have taken enough salts and laxatives for a hundred people, without any lasting results. I decided to try Sargon because I had confidence in its action on the liver and gall bladder after I had read in the papers of its discovery and action on the human system.

"After I had taken my first few doses I said to my daughter, I've found the right medicine at last, because I almost immediately felt a change in my condition. I am feeling wonderful, my tongue is no longer coated and I am rapidly gaining my oldtime strength. Sargon has been worth its weight in gold to me.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills are unlike any purgative, laxative or salts I have ever taken. They do not nauseate or gripe. My best description is they act more natural than anything I've ever taken. They are the best yet."

In publishing Mr. Lewis' statement, the distributors of Sargon wish to make it clear that they do not recommend Sargon in any way whatever as a cure for paralysis. They do claim, however, most emphatically that Sargon is a powerful reconstructive, invigorating tonic, and that it is designed to exert a tremendous influence on the processes of digestion, assimilation and elimination, on which good health largely depends.

Sargon may be obtained in Grenada from the Corner Drug Store. Copyright 1928 by The Sargon Co.

25 YEARS AGO IN GRENADA

From the Files of
THE GRENADA SENTINEL

Mrs. Tom Kennedy, of Vaiden, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. H. Allen.

Our efficient district attorney, Hon. W. P. Tackett, was in town Monday evening mingling with our citizens. He is a most pleasant and agreeable gentleman and we hear nothing but the highest compliments of his short service as district attorney.

Our friend, W. M. Mitchell, has been experimenting in silkworm culture. He made the first shipment of cocoons this week. The process is simple and should engage more attention. The cocoons will net in the original state about one dollar per pound.

All the physicians in Grenada county are urgently requested to meet in Grenada on Tuesday, July 28th, for the purpose of organizing a county medical society. Dr. K. P. Perkins, of Batesville, Miss., is the organizer for this district and will be here on the above date to launch this society. The above is published by request of Dr. J. W. Young.

Miss Mary Melton, a progressive teacher of Sherman, Texas, is the visitor of Mrs. Pearl Lickfold.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will serve refreshments at the residence of Mrs. G. B. Jones on Wednesday, July 15th, from 5 to 7. The public generally is invited.

Mr. Chas. G. Carothers, of Memphis, returned to his home Monday after several days visit to his brother, Rev. J. C. Carothers. Mr. Carothers was at one time associated with Mrs. M. E. Ayres in the conduct of a school in the college building. He is a genial, affable gentleman.

Little Miss Mary Walker Duncan is entertaining her little friends and relatives with a house party this week. Misses Carrie Townes and Mary Walker Townes are the visiting guests. About eight or ten little girls from town are also enjoying Miss Duncan's hospitality.

Mrs. V. R. James entertained on last Friday afternoon a party of young girls at home in honor of her sister, Miss May Carr, and her cousin, Miss Janestine Coats, of Water Valley. Mrs. James planned some new games which the children played with delight. Elegant refreshments were served and the children departed feeling sure that Mrs. James was an ideal hostess.

Miss Carrie Williams, of near Winona, spent Thursday night with friends in Grenada, while on her way to Scotland, where she will begin her summer school.

Mrs. W. L. Clifton, with her son, W. L. Clifton, Jr., is visiting her parents, Professor and Mrs. W. B. Bonnell, on Madison Street. Mrs. Clifton, who is quite a charming singer, is director of music in Grenada College, Grenada, Miss. After a short stay in Macon she will leave for New York, where she goes to continue the study of voice culture and singing.—Macon Georgia Telegraph.

4th July Picnic

After having attended a gathering of men of the city whose object was to seek out some kind of diversion for celebrating the 4th of July, we thought to give publicity to the magnificent results. We arranged for a big fishing excursion to McIntyre lake where the ladies could go with us on a fish fry outing, a magnificent place for an occasion of this kind, but for some cause the idea was abandoned and the crowd settled down on the idea of having an old time picnic such as we used to have, shortly after emerging from slavery which was a splendid idea. Notice of the occasion was broadcast in the churches and about the town as we passed each other. On Wednesday, the 4th, after having heard the announcements there was a general inquiry, where is the picnic going to be? They were informed that Mr. R. A. Minter had granted the grounds at the lower overflow well on the Bledsoe place. Ye editor of this column with a prepared basket consisting of chicken, sandwiches, cake, etc. hied away in his truck to be a party to the feast. We were the first to arrive. We read the daily paper until we fell asleep and after a splendid hour of sleep we awoke just in time to see Evans Phillips, one of the boys, coming through the pasture to where we were. It was then 3 o'clock and as we had carried away from home all the dinner he followed it to get his share. So we spread the table, he and I, and there had a feast which I enjoyed very much, bringing the remainder back home for another repast. This is the first picnic we ever enjoyed alone. This, though, goes to show the trend of sentiment for these anniversaries. We are no longer enamored of the things that gain our attention and cooperation. Christmas time, Washington and Lincoln birthdays, the 4th of July, emancipation day, now have no claim upon our loyalty and appreciation. In proportion as we allow ourselves to have interest in these festival occasions we are also losing the very essence of the things that have given us all that we are or can hope to be. We are further, today, from the ideal of real life than we were 40 years ago when we had an interest in each other. We some times think it will be a sad day for our race when all of the people who are acquainted personally with conditions shortly after the war between the states pass away.

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Johnson, A. M. E. Church, has chosen Grenada as his headquarters. Mississippi is his Episcopal Area. He comes from Georgia to this state as the resident bishop. The general church in this locality should feel honored to have this distinguished divine in its midst. Bishop Johnson, is a strong factor in his church and his labors in this state should mean much to the elevation of the race as well as the church which he represents. His office can be found at the residence of Mr. Felix Pass.

James Bostic, son of Rev. J. S. Bostic, is in the city after 3 years' absence in the city of Chicago, Ill., where he is now residing and doing well. He says there is no place like home and is glad to be at home to see his relatives and friends. Jimmie is a fine boy and we are glad to see him. He will spend several days here.

Lee Bowman Montgomery, one of our boys, born and reared here is at home again visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Bowman. Lee Bowman is growing and is a splendid specimen of our race. We are glad to see him.

Dr. W. H. Strickland, our efficient physician, is in the city of Detroit, Mich.,, visiting his family who reside there. We learn with sad regret that while there he was summoned to Chicago on account of the death of his daughter who resided there. We sympathise with him in this bereavement.

Mrs. Edna Cunningham, whose native home is Grenada, but now a resident of Chicago, is here on a visit to the old home to see relatives and friends. She says she had to come home to see the folks if she had to walk. We are glad to see her looking so well.

HIGHLANDERS MEETING MONDAY, JULY 9th

Hambone Rayburn had a job today and couldn't come to the meeting. So, I am going to report it this time.

We met at the Masonic building, where we said the precepts, motto, oath and prayer. Mr. Horton then gave each one of us two slips of paper with names of trees on them. We are to bring a piece of that wood to our next meeting.

We went out in the woods and played hare and hounds. After that, we sat around in the shade and talked awhile. Then we came back to town and raided Rose Cafe again. We want a real big meeting next Monday, for we want to get ready for our camp next month.

THE STORY

CHAPTER I.—Possessing characteristics that have earned him the nickname "Go Ahead," George Morton, Virginian, is the recipient of a communication (intended for his father, who is in the East) from Tom "Fair," asking the senior Morton, for sake of old friendship, to send some one to rescue his foster daughter, Stella, a relative of the Mortons, from a band of outlaws of whom "Fair" is the leader. "Fair" himself cannot bring her out, being watched by an enemy whom he designates only as "Jim." In the absence of his father, Go Ahead decides to go for Stella. As a cowboy, but with credentials as an official of the United States Secret Service, he leaves for Loboville, the place designated, with a colored attendant, Caesar.

CHAPTER II. — At "Robbers' Roost," the outlaws' stronghold, Fair explains the situation to Stella. The girl, eighteen years old, does not want to leave her adopted father or give up the free life she has led, more like a boy than a girl.

CHAPTER III.—Fair, at Jim Barker's direction (the "Jim" the outlaw had referred to, and the sheriff of the county) sends a gang to run a shipment of rifles and ammunition into Mexico and return with a consignment of whisky. He puts a man, Wade, whom he knows is his enemy, in charge. Unknown to Fair, Stella, with Wade's connivance, rides, dressed as a boy, with the whisky runners. Fair's messenger returns with the news that Go Ahead is on his way.

CHAPTER IV.—The bandits' errand is successful, and the party brings up at Barker's ranch. There Wade refuses to allow Stella to return to Robbers' Roost, making a proposal of marriage, which the girl refuses. Wade declares he will force her to marry him, and threatens to attack her. They struggle.

CHAPTER V.—Go Ahead comes on the scene, witnesses the struggle, and overcomes Wade. He has no suspicion of Stella's sex. She tells him her name is "Bob." According to arrangements with Wade, Barker appears and is also disarmed by Go Ahead. A Portuguese cowboy, Diego, fires at Morton, and "Bob" escapes, to follow the gang to Robbers' Roost. Go Ahead also gets away and goes after the girl.

CHAPTER VI.—Stella overtakes the outlaws, her arrival astonishing those in the plot, but they say nothing. Jack Green joins them and learns from Stella of Go Ahead's presence at the ranch. He tells her who her rescuer is. Stella decides to return and rejoin Go Ahead. She is pursued. Go Ahead intercepts her.

CHAPTER VII.—The girl explains the situation and the two ride away from their pursuers together. By a ruse, they evade their enemies. Two of the bandits, lagging behind the rest, are made prisoners by Go Ahead, and the four set out for Loboville. Go Ahead asks "Bob" about Stella, but the girl does not undeceive him, though he tells her his mission. At Loboville, Barker's headquarters, the two arrange to stay at the house of a friend, Bridget.

CHAPTER VIII.—At the town, Go Ahead maliciously turns his prisoners over to Sheriff Barker as horsethieves. Barker, though staggered by having two of his followers given into his custody, has to accept the situation. Go Ahead sees Captain Carter, of the regular army, in the town, and knows he has a friend.

CHAPTER IX.—Bridget accepts Go Ahead as a true friend of Stella's, and is amused at the deception the girl has so successfully practiced, but she does not reveal "Bob's" sex. She tells Go Ahead she has heard from Fair and that Stella will be at the Barker ranch early next morning. Go Ahead assures her he will be there, and sets out alone for a visit to Barker.

CHAPTER X.—Barker has arranged for the escape of the two bandits captured by Go Ahead and sends them to Robbers' Roost to tell Wade that Stella has betrayed them, and ordering him to bring all the outlaws to a hiding place near the town. Go Ahead's appearance interrupts a confab of the sheriff with a confederate. Barker tells Go Ahead he is going to marry Stella—for the money he believes she is to have—and warns him not to interfere. Seemingly caught in a deadly trap set by Barker, Go Ahead is saved by the arrival of Captain Carter with "Bob." The girl has brought the army officer and so saved Morton's life.

CHAPTER XI.—Barker's emissaries reach Wade with their message. He arouses the Roost. Fair, demanding to know what the trouble is, is killed by Wade, after being charged with treachery to the gang. Green, trying to save Fair, is also killed. Telling the outlaws they have been sold out, Wade leads them to meet Barker. At Bridget's place they find the two gone. A message from Diego informs them that Go Ahead and "Bob" are at the ranch.

CHAPTER XII

WHILE Wade and his men were riding to Loboville, Go Ahead and Stella were riding eastward, with Caesar at their heels.

Stella had been mad to get away from the town. The terror that had seized her while she waited with the soldiers outside Barker's office had not left her. Barker had been beaten again—beaten by herself this time; and Go Ahead believed that he was done for. But Stella had heard too many tales of the sheriff's methods to credit this; in the old days she had enjoyed these stories, but now the memory of them terrified her. That Barker would never again attack Go Ahead directly—this she believed; but that he would try to assassinate him she did not doubt.

How he would set about it she could not guess; if she could have guessed she would have been less troubled. That he had already summoned Wade to do the work for him she of course did not know, any more than she knew that the hotel was to be attacked before dawn. She knew only that Go Ahead was in desperate danger so long as he stayed in Loboville, and she was determined to get him out of it. And when she succeeded a load was lifted off her mind.

All the rest of the night they rode unmolested, beneath the glinting desert moon, until, close on to dawn, Luna dropped beneath the horizon, leaving only the low-hung stars to mitigate the darkness. Later came the actual dawn with the grotesque shapes of sun-tortured vegetation silhouetted against the rosy flush of the eastern horizon. And beyond these rose the low buildings of Barker's ranch.

As the light grew, Go Ahead leaned forward, scanning the landscape far and near, seeking for some sign that Stella had arrived before him. Stella herself did not look at the country; instead she looked at Go Ahead frowningly; jealously irritated that he should be so eager to see this minx whom, so far as he knew, he had never beheld. Caesar, meanwhile, nodded in his saddle.

Finally Go Ahead gave over his search for the moment. "We're too early, Bob," he said. "I was afraid we would be. There's nothing to do now except go to the ranch house and wait there till she turns up."

"Go to the ranch house!" Amazement amounting to incredulity drove the sleepiness from the girl's eyes. "You—you don't mean it?"

"Why, of course I mean it. Why not?"

"But—but—" Stella broke off. Already she had learned the futility of trying to induce Go Ahead to be prudent. "But Fair didn't say to wait in the ranch house," she ended, desperately.

"Of course he didn't. But where else are we to wait?" Go Ahead laughed at sight of the dismay on Stella's face. "It does seem like venturing into a hornet's nest, doesn't it?" he admitted. "But it really isn't. Barker we left in Loboville; Wade is probably up north; there can't be anyone much here except Diego. We'll just tie him up or set a guard on him, and then we can make ourselves at home. See?"

"But suppose Barker comes after us. Suppose his spies saw us leaving—"

"Couldn't. He'd have jumped us long ago. And even if he did come after us we'd be safer behind 'dobe walls than in the open."

"But—but why not go on?"

Go Ahead opened his eyes. "Why, we can't go without Stella," he protested.

It was on the tip of Stella's tongue to say something very derogatory about her other self. But she checked herself just in time. "Fair said that if she didn't meet us at dawn for us to go on, she'd overtake us," she pleaded.

"Yes. But it isn't dawn yet. We've got to wait somewhere and we've got to rest while we wait. I'm not 'specially sleepy myself but I wouldn't mind forty winks, and I guess you wouldn't either. And then of course we've got to give the horses a chance to eat and rest a bit, or they may play out on us when we least expect it."

Stella gave up. "You know best, I suppose," she said, "but I wish you wouldn't wait for Stella. I don't believe she's coming at all."

Go Ahead looked at the girl gravely. "I hope she will come," he said. "If she doesn't I'll have to consider going after her. You see, Barker told me last night why he wanted to marry her—"

"What?"

"Yes. I thought from what Green and you said about her that it was curious that he should want her so badly. But now I understand."

"You—you don't mean he told you about her money?"

"Eh. . . . So you know about it, too. Yes, he told me—indirectly. He warned me that he was going to marry her and take her money himself and that I'd better put all such thoughts out of my head."

"He told you—that! He thought that you—"

"Seems so. Oh, he's just got money on the brain. He's—"

"But what did you say?"

"Me!" Go Ahead chuckled. "Oh, I turned it off some way. I ought to have told him—but no matter about that. I couldn't tell him anything without spilling all the beans. But the long and short of it is that I've got to get Stella away from that robber camp before Barker goes back to it."

Bob's voice quivered with suppressed passion. "I s'pose you want her for yourself!"

Go Ahead did not answer. But he turned and looked at the girl long and gravely. Then, still without speaking, he looked away.

After a while Stella looked up. Then she uttered a startled exclamation. "Oh, we're right at the house," she gasped. "Oh, oh! Please don't go inside, Go-ey! Go anywhere else—beyond the barn there—anywhere."

"All right." Go Ahead turned his horse slightly. His brief anger had melted, giving place to concern. "You're played out," he said, "and it's no wonder. That's what makes you so temperamental. We'll camp beyond the barn on one condition, and that is that you'll lie down right away and take a nap."

But Stella shook her head mutinously. "I've got to do my share," she said.

"All right. Then we'll go inside the house and you can do it there." Go Ahead relaxed his slight tug on the reins, and his horse instantly tried to turn in toward the ranch house, now just abreast.

This brought Stella to terms. "No, no," she cried. "I give in. I'll lie down." Under her breath she added: "but I won't sleep."

"Good enough." Go Ahead dragged his reluctant steed back to its course.

A moment later the three had passed, apparently unseen, beyond the barn and were screened by its bulk from the eyes of anyone who might appear in or about the ranch buildings. Very quickly the blanket rolls were unstrapped and tossed down, the horses provided with nose bags, and Stella, resentful but true to her word, had lain down, resolved not to close her eyes.

But the sandman was abroad and when, a moment later, Go Ahead stepped lightly to her side, he found her fast asleep.

Long he stood looking down on her in silence. Then, muttering, "Poor, tired, plucky boy," and resolving in his heart of hearts that he'd "take good care of Bob when he got him East," he went back to Caesar.

"Caesar," he asked, "how sleepy are you?"

"Me? Ain't sleepy at all, Mr. George, suh." Caesar never dreamed of using such an appellation as "Go Ahead" instead of the aristocratic "George Ashmead."

"Well, I am! And I guess you did sleep most of the night. Do you suppose you could keep watch for an hour while I take a nap?"

Go Ahead Stepped Lightly to Her Side and Found Her Sleeping.

Caesar drew himself up. "Course I can, Mr. George, suh," he replied with considerable dignity.

"Well, I'll trust you. Come over here." Go Ahead led the way some twenty feet northward to the north end of the barn. "There isn't a thing to do except to stand here, at this corner, and keep your eyes open," he said. "You can look east and west along the road we just came by, and north across the road, and now and then take a look over your shoulder past Bob and me and the horses along the side of the barn to the south, to make sure that nobody's trying to slip up on you from behind. The first human being you see, wake me quick. And wake me in an hour anyway—one hour. You understand?"

"Yassuh, I understand!"

"Well, you do it, or I'll skin you alive."

"Yassuh!" Caesar grinned. Evidently the threat was a mere verbal pleasantry, without terrors.

With a nod Go Ahead strode half a dozen feet to the rear and flopped down on his blankets as Stella had done. Like Stella, too, he was asleep in an instant.

Caesar watched him take his place; then, bristling and determined, he set himself to keep unremitting vigil.

And he did keep it. He obeyed Go Ahead's instructions to the letter, kept excellent watch up and down and across the road that ran in front of him, and periodically looked behind him. If danger had come from any of these directions he would undoubtedly have detected it and given warning. But, actually, it did not come from any of these directions.

The passing of the travelers along the front of the ranch buildings had not been unnoticed. Diego, he who had gone down before Barker's heavy knife when he tried to waylay Go Ahead, had lain awake nearly all the night, suffering from the pain of the thrust through his upper arm. More, he was standing at the window of the bunkhouse, staring out into the dawn, when the three rode by. He thought he recognized Go Ahead, and finding that the party did not reappear along the road beyond the barn, he crossed from the bunkhouse to the barn, where, head pressed against the boards at the back, he listened with all his ears. Soon he was rewarded by the sound of voices and then, finding a convenient knothole through which to peep, by the sight of the man whose quickwittedness had got him his wound.

Then he went to the ranch house, to the automatic telephone, and called up Barker's office. The bell was still ringing when Barker got back from seeing Wade and his men off for Bridget's. He heard it, indeed, as he came up the path, and quickened his steps to a run in consequence. 'Phone calls at that hour of the morning were rare and likely to be important.

"Hello!" he yelled into the mouthpiece, and when Diego's excited accents came back to him he swore aloud.

Diego recognized his voice and took no note of his profanity. Volubly, in mingled Spanish and English, he gasped out his tale.

At first Barker refused to believe it. Regularly, all the night through, his spies had reported each of them with the assurance that Go Ahead and Stella were asleep at Bridget's. . .

RATES OF POSTAGE UNDER NEW LAW ARE SUMMARIZED

Regulations and instructions necessary to carry the provisions of the new Postal Rate Act into effect on July 1 have been prepared and are expected to be promulgated next week, the Third Assistant Postmaster General, R. S. Regar, announced orally June 8. This law will involve entirely new principles in its application, Mr. Regar said. Discussing a summary which he had prepared of the provisions of the Postal Rate Act, Mr. Regar pointed out a modification and extension of the special service charges on fourth-class matter and special delivery fee and services for letters and packages of first-class mail.

New Rates Summarized

The full text of a summary of the new postal rates, prepared by Mr. Regar, follows:

Restoration of the 1-cent postal rate.

Reduction of the zone rates applicable to the advertising portions of publications entered as second-class matter with a provision, however, that the rates shall be doubled when there are more than 32 individually addressed copies to the pound, or trebled when the number of copies exceeds 48, and so on.

A reduction of the transient second-class rate to 1 cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof regardless of distance or weight.

Pound Rates Established

The establishment of pound rates on bulk mailings of identical pieces of third-class matter in quantities of not less than 20 pounds or 200 pieces, such rates being 8 cents a pound or fraction thereof for books, catalogues, seeds, plants, etc., and 12 cents a pound or fraction thereof for all other third-class matter, with a proviso that in no case shall the postage be less than 1 cent a piece.

Elimination of the socalled 2-cent service charge on fourth-class matter, but retaining the same in effect by adding 2 cents to the rate on the first pound in the first three zones, and 1 cent to the initial pound in the remaining zones.

A special rate for library books when mailed to readers by public libraries, organizations or associations not organized for profit, and when returned by the readers, such rate being 3 cents for the first pound and 1 cent for each additional pound to any point within the first, second, or third zone, or within the State to which mailed.

Handling Charge Modified

Modification of the special handling postage charge on fourth-class matter by graduating the same according to the weights of the parcels, namely, 10 cents for parcels weighing not more than two pounds, 15 cents for parcels weighing more than two pounds but not exceeding 10 pounds, and 20 cents for parcels weighing more than 10 pounds.

Modification and extension of the special delivery fee and service. The special delivery fee for letters and packages of first-class mail not exceeding two pounds in weight will be 10 cents as at present, while on packages of such matter exceeding two pounds but weighing not more than 10 pounds the fee will be 20 cents and on packages exceeding 10 pounds the fee will be 25 cents. Mail other than that of the first-class will be given the same expeditious handling and transportation as is accorded first-class matter and in addition receive immediate delivery at the office of address upon prepayment of a special delivery fee of 15 cents for parcels weighing not more than two pounds, 25 cents for parcels exceeding two pounds but not weighing more than 10 pounds, and 35 cents for parcels exceeding 10 pounds in weight.

A provision permitting the use of business reply cards and envelopes on which the postage is to collected upon their delivery to the person or a concern who distributed the cards or envelopes, a charge of not exceeding two cents over and above the regular postage to be made for this service. Under the law, fourth-class Postmasters will receive credit to the extent of the regular postage in connection with business reply cards and envelopes mailed at their offices and Postmasters at offices of the first, second and third classes will be credited for such matter delivered through their offices.

An additional charge of one cent for each ounce is prescribed for first-class matter reaching the office of address short-paid more than one rate—two cents—that is, if a letter is short-paid only two cents of that amount will be collected as postage due upon delivery, but if a letter or other first-class matter is short-paid more than two cents, then the deficient postage and an additional charge of one cent for each ounce or fraction thereof shall be collected on delivery. The purpose of this extra charge is, of course, to effect a decrease in the amount of short-paid first-class matter deposited for mailing.

The regulations and instructions necessary to carry these various new rates and provisions into effect are now being prepared and it is expected that they will be published at an early date.

"is a nigger" that lets one in and tells one where he can sit. In aping those who have gone before him in trying to get office in Mississippi on "riding the nigger", Mr. Wilson is a poor success, and to his credit it may be said that this is true, because he is out of his element, and it is wondered if he is not doing this because he realizes that his cause is desperate and his defeat is sure. It is a case of "Sambo if you don't throw me a line, I'm gone".

Mr. Wilson forgot to tell his audience that it was Senator Hubert Stephens who filed a vigorous protest against the order of Secretary Herbert Hoover requiring that whites and negroes should work side by side in the Department of Commerce, and that this letter of Senator Stephens to Mr. Hoover rang the bell all over the country and that its echoes have gone ringing around the world.

He read a newspaper clipping in which Senator Stephens is quoted as being insulted because of certain communications sent to him by a few Mississippians who condemned his vote for allowing Senator Brookhart, a Republican from the state of Iowa, to retain his seat which was being contested by a Democrat, Senator Steck. Mr. Wilson made much of a Mississippi Democrat voting to keep a Republican in the senate when he had a chance to seat a Democrat. This is a surprise in view of his own vote on one contest. It had evidently slipped Mr. Wilson's memory that in a one minute speech which he made in the House of Representatives, June 15, 1926, while the Bailey-Walters contested election case was up, he delivered himself of the following in conclusion:

"I am a Democrat. I believe it was just predestined from the foundation that I was to be a Democrat, but I am not the kind of a Democrat who will go against his own convictions and vote to seat a man in this Congress simply because he is a Democrat, who upon the face of the returns is not entitled to his seat".

That is sound reasoning. It is patriotic. Mr. Wilson was right if he felt as he said he did, but why arraign Senator Stephens for doing the very thing he himself did? The few communications which went to Senator Stephens and to which Mr. Wilson referred, and which naturally made him righteously indignant, were of the firebrand kind and of a threatening nature and he had a right to feel insulted.

The Brookhart case hinged upon the construction of an Iowa statute, as this paper understood at the time, and Senator Stephens, being a state's right Democrat, thought that the senate should give the statute the construction that a state's right interpretation would place upon it, which, if done, he held, would allow Brookhart to retain his seat. Other good Democrats saw the case differently, but Senator Stephens would have been unworthy to represent the great state of Mississippi in the greatest deliberative body in the world if he had not voted his honest convictions. No foe of Hubert Stephens can ever accuse him of dodging an issue or of failing to register his honest judgment.

Mr. Wilson read with a deal of gusto the Washington news items crediting Senator Stephens with having secured the passage through the senate of a bill creating another federal court district for Mississippi and locating it in north Mississippi, and stating that the matter would be pushed through the lower house of congress as soon as congress reconvened in December. Mr. Wilson ridiculed the very idea and said the whole thing was a concocted scheme to get the support of certain lawyers in north Mississippi who thought they might get to be judge. He said Lester Fant of Holly Springs had gotten his judicial robes out and was trying them on hoping that he might be judge. He said that another man at Ripley had gotten his judicial trimmings and was strutting about to see how they would look on him. In a similar vein he mentioned Judge McGehee of Clarksdale and several others. He said that there would be nothing heard of the matter after congress again comes together. He said that when he got to be senator he would see that men were appointed with whom "no nigger" had anything to do. He failed to see even through what he charged against Stephens in this particular, that if he (Stephens) could get the senate to do what it did for him in regard to this proposed new court bill, he must be a potential influence in that body.

He seemed to recognize that the delta section of the state was backing Senator Stephens in this race, and that that section had got the impression that the Senator had done much for it in the passage of the flood control law. He said that when he got over into that section he was going to tell those people some facts that would make them open their eyes.

Mr. Wilson seemed to be wholly oblivious of the fact that all he charged against Senator Stephens about "nigger patronage" and the alleged selling and buying of federal offices in Mississippi, would apply with like force and effect to Senator Harrison, and that if Senator Stephens had failed to do what he should do in the matter, likewise had Senator Harrison failed. In other words, on the question of confirming federal appointments and the bribery charges, Senators Stephens and Harrison stand together, and a charge in that regard cannot justly lie, as the legal term goes, against one without including the other. The life and public record of Senator Harrison negatives the whole business and justifies a nolle pros. These two men, rock-ribbed Democrats, true to every tradition of the South, consenting to foisting on the people what Mr. Wilson claims and insinuates is unthinkable and undoubtedly comes of his overweaning ambition for office.

Mr. Wilson did not tell that Senator Stephens had prepared and sponsored altogether 39 bills in the Senate all of which had been passed, most of them passing by unanimous consent, and that it is regarded as a high tribute to the confidence and esteem of fellow senators for any senator to get a measure, and particularly many measures, passed by unanimous consent.

Mr. Wilson said he voted in congress for everything for the soldiers of the World War and that he was going to continue to do that. In this regard, his record parallels that of Senator Stephens. He was right in saying that it was time that people should quit thinking of "doing something for Europe" and think more about what America, the people at home, needed. He stands squarely with the position The Sentinel has maintained ever since the World War, and again right along beside Senator Stephens. He said that the debts of foreign countries had been too much scaled; in this he was correct, and again right in the boat with The Sentinel. He said the United States should have nothing to do with European quarrels and should enter into no obligations that would cause this country to send its soldiers to Europe. The Sentinel has taken this position ever since the Armistice was signed, but, if it is not in error, Mr. Wilson was among the thousands just after the war who said "stand by Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations" regardless. This statement is not made critically, and if Mr. Wilson did once advocate that view, he was with "the multitude", and is to be congratulated on getting right now. In regard to European alliances, The Sentinel feels sure that there is no disagreement between him and Senator Stephens.

Mr. Wilson mentioned his speech against trashy literature and the effect of allowing the baneful matter which is appearing in many magazines to pass through the mails. He failed to say whether or not he followed up his bill by going before the committee to which it was referred to urge its passage. He failed to state how many, if any, committees of congress he had appeared before urging any specific legislation.

Mr. Wilson seemed to relish much more telling about what he regarded as Senator Stephens' short-comings than he did of any digested ideas he has about national matters and statesmanship of other than the bombastic kind.

In brief, Mr. Wilson's speech showed that he believes in running for office and that he would be mighty glad to supplant Senator Stephens, and that he has set up a bogey about "the nigger", and federal patronage and Senator Stephens' responsibility for the alleged buying and selling of offices that will not stand up in any court, and that if true as to Sen Stephens, then Senator Harrison is equally responsible.

In short, it is evident that there is no real issue between Senator Stephens and Mr. Wilson except Mr. Wilson's ambition to get the place which Senator Stephens now fills and for which the senator is asking an endorsement at the hands of the Democrats of Mississippi.

Mr. Wilson is quite a young man. He is well grounded and The Sentinel, together with many of his other friends, regrets that he turned loose his job in the lower house of congress to make the race against Senator Stephens, and still others regret that he is making the sort of campaign he is. But the exuberance of youth has thousands and thousands of times caused men to do things that were not best for themselves, nor for their country and embarrassing to many of their friends. He has yet to learn much in statecraft and about public life, but he will get some lessons, no doubt in the campaign he is making that should be most valuable to him and still further equip him for the big things of life. There are some who think that some men sometimes put too much stress on sophomoric oratory rather than upon that logic which comes of close study and of wise planning and of long, long looks ahead. This paper feels most kindly to Mr. Wilson and it would afford it keen delight to render him any personal favor, and measured in the terms of days and years ahead, it thinks it is doing him a favor by supporting Senator Stephens for reelection, a man who has been faithful, able, and attentive to every public trust. Hubert Stephens has always led a clean, upright life; he has nothing to hide. He has been loyal to his friends and true in all life's relations. While yet just merging into the fifties, he is still young, but has many years of experience and of observations that naturally give him or any other man of like age and position much advantage over one of Mr. Wilson's age.

Mr. Albert Garland, of Somerset, Ky., recently said: "I used to work in the mines, but lost quite a bit of time on account of sick spells I had. I would get to having a bad taste in my mouth, and a very dull, tired feeling and ache.

"My mother told me to try Black-Draught, which I did, and after a few doses I felt much better. Now I take it as soon as I feel the least bad, and I don't get down. I certainly can say that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken.

"I never get without Black-Draught. If I go on a visit, I take a package along in my suitcase. My health is better now than it has been in years."

Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality.
